The Reorganization Bill, which would authorize the President to reorganize the executive and departmental structure of the Federal Government WITHOUT SUBMITTING HIS PROPOSALS TO CONGRESS, is now in the House of Representatives after passage by the United States Senate.

This bill, which vitally affects our form of constitutional and representative government and means practically the death of American democracy, should be killed. Don't be tricked by promises that certain of the most arrogant sections of the bill such as federal control of youth education, abolishment of any check on presidential spending, abolishment of the civil service commission and abolishment of the veterans' bureau MIGHT be eliminated at secret committee hearings. Play safe! And safety for constitutional government lies in defeating the bill in its infancy. The House has the power to perform a distinct public service to the American people whose interests and liberties are vitally concerned. YOU, as a citizen of the United States, are given one more opportunity to see to it that this bill does not pass. Telegraph your Congressman IMMEDIATELY, asking him to record himself against the Reorganization Bill. (See Page 7 for names of N. E. Congressmen.)

Rebels Split Reds in Big Advance

SARAGOSSA, Spain, April 4 (INS)—Insurgent troops today swarmed down the Ebro river valley and over the heights to the coastal Sierra to look upon the northwestern Mediterranean for the first time in this long civil war.

The sea was only 15 miles distant, and for all practical purposes, Loyalist Spain was split into two.

Captures of Lerida, second city of Catalonia, with hundreds of casualties in house-to-house fighting, coincided with the taking of Pinell, in its lower part of Tarragona.

Generalissimo Francisco Franco's vanguard is now near Cheria, and his siege guns so effectively command the remainder of the lower Ebro valley that communications between Valencia and Barcelona are practically cut off.

SIX MILES FROM TORTOSA

Insurgent troops are now less than six miles from Tortosa. One more advance like today's is likely to cut the highway running along the coast.

Lerida was yielded by the Loyalists almost inch by inch.

After bracketing the city of 120,000 on three sides, the Moors, Spaniards and Italians of General Yague penetrated Lerida from the south. In the dusk they took the railroad station by assault, while the defenders withdrew street by street.

Corn Sprouts In Boy's Nose

PARSONS, W. Va., April 4 (AP)—Mothers sometimes warn children that potatoes will grow in their ears, but four-year-old Elmer Brad of Elk, W. Va., was one better—corn grew in his nose.

Eldred pushed a grain of corn up his right nostril two weeks ago. After small roots pushed down from the boy's nose, his alarmed mother rushed him to Dr. Samuel Weisman.

The physician removed the grain on his right nostril two weeks ago. The boy had grown to half an inch long.

The baby, a five-pound girl, was born on Sunday to Mrs. Catherine Snowden, child-wife of James Snowden, 27-year-old miner of nearby Labeled.

Mercury Dives to 32 in Winter's Return

Snow melt spring in Metropolitan Boston today and brought down the coldest April 4th morning in six years.

Following a sharp drop to 22 degrees at 6 a. m., the temperature rose slowly and at 1:30 large flakes began to fall.

Following the weather man reported a temperature of 42 degrees below zero 10,000 feet over Boston (which means snow), he said the cold waves up there would disperse and snow flurries would change to light rain by nightfall.

Dr. Callahan, commissioner of public works, reported today that 300 men and 40 trucks worked through the night to clear snow from the highways of western Massachusetts.

He said six inches of snow fell in Peabody, 2 inches in North Andover, 1 inch in Danvers and two inches at Adams.

Concession Offer Is Made by Dealers on Veterans' Bureau

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff

WASHINGTON, April 4—Another concession in the bitter House fight over reorganization legislation was indicated today when administration leaders said they "very probably" will accept an amendment prohibiting the President from reorganizing or transferring the independent veterans' bureau.

The statement was made as Speaker Bankhead expressed doubt whether debate on the bill, which has reached a peak of bitterness for recent years, could be resumed before Thursday.

The House had a special calendar up for consideration today and will have other privileged legislation before it tomorrow and Wednesday.

The fight is veering around to a point where some observers predict that the final vote on the reorganization bill will be tantamount to a vote of confidence in the Administration.

PRESIDENT'S PLEDGE

Although President Roosevelt has said he did not intend to reorganize the Veterans' Administration, leaders of veterans' organizations and the congressional "veterans bloc" insisted that a definite exemption be written into the bill.

"In view of what the President stated, I see no necessity for an amendment extending the Veterans' Administration," said Chairman Cochran (D) of the subcommittee of the reorganization committee. "But if the committee feels, in view of the requests of the service organizations, that

Defense of Franco Causes Near Riot

Father Ahern Tells Audience Rebels Back Democracy

Historic Old South Meeting House was the scene of a stormy session during which Rev. Michael Ahern, S. J., of Western College, delivered a stirring defense of General Franco, while Communists and supporters of Spain's Red regime threatened a riot.

As Fr. Ahern expressed sympathy with the insurgent cause and outlined Gen. Franco's plans for a Spanish democracy, pro-Loyalists among the 1200 present shot questions and objections from the floor.

One Communist who attempted to give a speech during the "question period" was quickly silenced by police threatened to eject him from the hall. Following the meeting the crowd gathered on the street and indulged in heated pro and con arguments.

POLICE HALT FIGHTS
A dozen policemen filtered through the crowd, preventing further fights and gradually forcing the listeners to leave.

Father Ahern, one of the leading revolutionists in America, told the gathering of Franco's plans to lift Spain from the morass of Communist despotism.

"It is true," he stated, "that Franco and the insurgents have the support of Hitler and Mussolini, but that does not mean that Franco supports a Fascist type of government, any more than our ancestors supported the French type of government because we received aid from the French in our own revolution."

"General Franco has stated his intentions of establishing an 'organic democracy' as soon as the restored order and peace are restored in his country."

HAS RESTORED ORDER
"It is easy to see that he intends to fulfill this. In the parts of the country where Spain has been victorious, we see he has already started factories and restored order and peace and happiness."

"This organic democracy will be a democracy of trades and professions. We in this country elect representatives of different communities. In the new Spanish democracy, the representatives will be elected according to their occupations."

"That is to say, the steam-fitters and the carpenters and the seamen will elect representatives to a central body who will direct the country."

"Of course, it is impossible to establish any type of democracy in Spain at the present time. For you cannot realize a political theory in the stress of war."

REVOLT JUSTIFIED
"The Revolution of Franco was just as much justified as the revolution of the American colonies against England."

He declared that the Catholic Church is not supporting Franco or Fascism, but stated that the majority of the Catholic clergy in Spain and throughout the world was on the side of Franco because it is the truly Christian side.

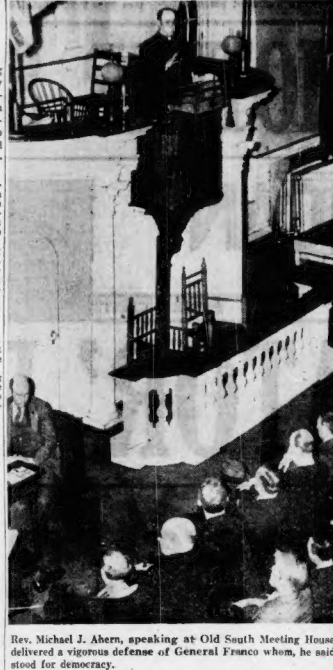

"But the clergy itself is for democracy," he stated, "which is seen by the fact that three fourths of the clergy in Spain voted for the republic."

He stated that under the new organic democracy, there will be a strengthening of authority based not on individual representation but on representation of the groups in the country. Under our own democracy here, we have to fear of 'lobbying' in Congress in order to give any representation to groups.

"This type of legislation, by lobbying and the like, will be eliminated under Franco's form of democracy."

A large crowd gathered at the door after the meeting with many of the Communists starting arguments to the streets.

Vatican Paper Says Radio Talk Not Inspired

L'Osservatore Romano Asserts Views on Nazi Unofficial

VATICAN CITY, April 4 (AP)—L'Osservatore Romano, Vatican newspaper, said today that Friday night's Vatican station broadcast on "Political Catholicism" was "neither official nor semi-official nor inspired."

The station broadcast a statement in German on "Fascism and Catholicism" which had brought heavy damage to the honor and esteem of the church.

Earlier in the same day L'Osservatore Romano had published a brief note which said it was authorized to say that the declaration by Austrian bishops concerning National Socialism was "not inspired without previous or subsequent approbation of the Holy See, and was made on the sole responsibility of the Austrian episcopate."

In that declaration, Theodor, Cardinal Inzerillo, Archbishop of Vienna, and five other Catholic prelates, voiced recognition of the Nazi movement's achievements, and proclaimed their loyalty as Germans to the greater Germany.

PAPERS' STATEMENT
L'Osservatore Romano's comment today follows in full:

"Numerous daily" received lengthy reports from foreign agencies and correspondents in Rome on a discussion delivered over the Vatican radio the evening of Friday, April 1, on a theme which has been heard many times on occasions—Political Catholicism.

Usual importance was attributed to it, some were presenting it as a sequel for an before amplification of the official version published in our newspaper the same day.

"We do not intend now in this brief clarification to enter into the merits of the discussion itself, which was concerned with a subject so delicate as political Catholicism and around which so lively a controversy has arisen."

DENIES TALK INSPIRED
"But it seems to us opportune to emphasize that it was a theoretical study privately undertaken and there was no official or semi-official inspiration, in similar cases, intended to secure responsibility for it."

It is noted by which the Holy See makes known its ideas on Catholicism in the world. Among them, when a communication is published in the public press, it is in general as involved in the newspaper.

He stated that under the new organic democracy, there will be a strengthening of authority based not on individual representation but on representation of the groups in the country. ## Blum in Waterloo Is Seen in New Money Move

Cabinet O. K.'s Plan, But Parliament Fight Looms

PARIS, April 4 (AP)—The cabinet, with President Albert Lebrun presiding, today gave formal approval to Premier Leon Blum's sweeping financial proposals, which financiers interpreted to include a measure of foreign exchange control and revaluation of the franc.

Parliament's approval, however, was considered doubtful.

Reflecting a widespread feeling that the Socialist premier's official position would lead to his Waterloo, the franc strengthened in the open market on the Bourse.

BLUM FALLS
Financial circles said this strengthening showed belief the Socialist premier soon would fall, and the government would be replaced by a "public safety" cabinet with wide support in Parliament.

Most important of the proposals is a measure of foreign exchange control and revaluation of the franc.

Deal Opposes Calling Arms Parley Now

Leaders Say Nation Must Prepare an Adequate Defense

WASHINGTON, April 4 (UPI)—Opposition against the proposed new naval disarmament conference at the present time, the State Department today declared the United States must maintain an adequate national defense as long as nations refuse to compromise their political differences.

The department threw its full support behind immediate passage of the billion-dollar naval reserve bill as an unprecedented answer to a Senate questionnaire.

JAPS BUILDING NOW
The department said the 5-5-3 naval ratio agreed upon Britain and Japan, demanded proposals to improve fixed frontiers on the American navy and carefully sidestepped the issue of granting naval parity to Japan.

It protested delaying the naval bill until a disarmament conference is held, saying "there will be no practical result" from such a ploy, due to Japan's naval policy.

Calling such a conference now, it warned would turn the parity into a "platform for airing national grievances" by America and Britain of intention to build huge fleets.

Backs M'Mahon Who Periled Life as King

Letter on His Release Touches Windsor And Duchess

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

(Copyright, 1938)

LONDON, April 4.—One of the most striking examples of ex-king Edward the Eighth's compassion for the "underdog" came to light today.

International News Service is able to reveal that the Duke of Windsor has given a considerable sum of money to the man who served 13 months in prison for attempting what was believed to have been an attempt upon his life when he was King in July, 1936.

He has further helped to establish the man, George Andrew McMahon, in business here, and constantly is using his influence to help him along.

The Duke of Windsor also has expressed the desire to meet him one day, and the Duchess of Windsor has likewise expressed the desire to meet him.

SENDS DUKE LETTER

The Duke's sympathy for McMahon was shown by a touching letter which the latter sent him after he had been released from prison in August of last year.

McMahon was arrested on July 24, 1936, for producing a pistol and throwing it toward the then King Edward VIII while the latter was riding his charger down Constitution Hill at the head of a state procession.

Edward witnessed the commotion at the time, but merely turned his head and glanced at the man. Then, controlling his startled horse, he continued on.

McMahon was rushed through a hostile crowd to Bow Street police station. He was sent to trial at Old Bailey and sentenced on September 14, 1936, to 12 months' hard labor for "unlawfully producing near the King a pistol with intent to alarm His Majesty."

SERVED 13 MONTHS

Sent to Wandsworth Jail, he was released on August 12, 1937, after obtaining remission of a portion of his sentence. He had served a total of 13 months in prison since the time he was arrested.

On his release, he wrote the following letter to the Duke of Windsor:

"Your Royal Highness:

"This is the first opportunity I have had of explaining my conduct and making an appeal of loyalty to you since my arrest."

"I have just been released from Wandsworth prison."

"I most humbly wish to affirm to you my repeated avowals of loyalty and admiration for your humane and kindly kingship."

"Your abolition moved me deeply. The news came to me in all its options. I know that 800 men in Wandsworth felt the burden of their own punishment had been lightened when they reflected on how harshly you, after so many years of service and sacrifice, had been treated by that section of fellow-countrymen who presumed to sit in judgment on a matter that was for you alone."

TRIED TO WRITE

"I tried again on the approach of your marriage to write you. I was estranged by my fellow prisoners with the pleasant task of writing to wish you and your bride-to-be all happiness."

"But I failed in my attempt to send the letter out, and also in my attempt to have it smuggled out."

"My 13 months in prison were a veritable nightmare. My suffering was increased tenfold because I was forbidden to write you in explanation and humbly crave your pardon."

"I had a photograph of you as Prince of Wales on the wall of my cell. It was a rare privilege to have it there."

"Each time I saw that picture I thought of your ready sympathy for every underdog, and I longed that one day you would accept my assurance that I never intended to harm or alarm you in any way."

LOYALTY CONSTANT

"I felt you were the one man in England to whom I would not appeal in vain."

"Now that you, too, have been through the vale of suffering, have known the anguish that the harsh condemnation of fellow-men brings, I write to you in all humility and pray that one day, please God soon, the whole facts relating to my arrest will give you the certain knowledge that my loyalty to you has never wavered."

Within a few days after he had sent the letter, McMahon received from the Duke of Windsor, in which was inclosed a check for a substantial sum of money. As the result of further correspondence, the Duke had personal friends visit McMahon and make arrangements to establish him in the advertising business in London.

Although this happened months ago, it has just now come to light because the Duke requested that no public attention be given to help the man who was believed to have threatened his life.

Dog Saves Three From Fire Death

Barking of a mongrel dog saved a married couple and a 4-year-old child from possible death today when fire swept a tenement house on dwelling on Castle road, East Weymouth.

Charles Jodrey, 40, was awakened by the dog.

Almost suffocated by smoke, he picked up his wife, Alice, 37, who was here, sick, and carried her to the home of a neighbor. He then rescued Jane Smith, 4, who was being visited there.

Firemen smashed a window to allow Tad, the dog, to jump through, and then rescued the Jodrey cat.

Saved From Water After 45-Foot Fall

James L. DaSilva, seaman on the City of Worcester, now tied up at Pier 4, East Boston, was rescued by fellow sailors today when he fell 45 feet into the water.

He was thrown a line and pulled to safety. At Chelsea Marine Hospital he was treated for a broken pelvis and immersion.

Stage Gloria Trial Sequel

Ex-Model Sues Over Evidence in Case

LOS ANGELES, April 4 (UPI).—Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt's legal battle for custody of her daughter, Gloria, now 14, was scheduled to find a sequel in a Los Angeles court today.

A suit for $1500 brought by former artist's model Lillian Lager against C. Blumenthal, New York realty operator, was set to come up for hearing.

The ex-model claims she was sent to New York as a witness in the custody case by Blumenthal, a close friend of Mrs. Vanderbilt's and Thelma, Lady Farnese, her twin sister.

She said she took with her a book "The Art of Robert Chandler," which she had written by Chandler in 1916 and 1917 when he was her model.

She declares that although she did not testify in the Vanderbilt trial, the book and letters were not returned to her.

Blumenthal, who maintains a home here, denies her charges.

Williams 'Clique Tool,' Says Kelly

Lieut.-Governor Home To Push 'Attack' Probe to Limit

Charging that Dr. David L. Williams, state commissioner of mental diseases, was the "tool of an unscrupulous political clique," Lieutenant Governor Francis E. Kelly today announced he would "press to the limit" investigation of Dr. Williams' allegation he was attacked by the lieutenant-governor last year.

From a "thoroughly well-informed" source, Kelly announced on his arrival with his wife from Florida, Kelly hurled his challenge to Dr. Williams and his "plotting force" and declared he is sure of victory in the race for the governorship next fall.

"Why does Dr. Williams fear to face the man he accused in so cowardly a manner?" Kelly asked. "His failure to comply with my request to prove his charges shows me conclusively he is the tool of an unscrupulous political clique seeking my destruction."

FIGHT TO FINISH
"I intend to go to the bottom of this matter. I will not allow his refusal to answer my questions to delay my exposure of this insidious political plot. I will see this matter through to the finish and reveal the nefarious purpose of these charges to the people of Massachusetts."

"My first move will be to demand on Wednesday that Dr. Williams be summoned before the Governor and the executive council to repeat the charges he is charged to have made in writing last March 7."

"The political cunning and injustice surrounding this matter will amaze the people of Massachusetts when it is fully exposed. This is one framework that will not succeed."

HAS 'OTHER PLANS'
"The lieutenant-governor said he had other plans under consideration but would not reveal to them," Kelly Dr. Williams makes it necessary."

He refused to divulge the details of these plans but indicated they were connected with bringing court action on the basis of the charges made against him.

More than 600 persons gathered in the South Station to welcome Kelly and his wife on their return from the Florida vacation trip. He was carried on the shoulders of the crowd outside the station, where he delivered a short address.

what must have been horrible torture.

The physician said the daughter apparently had been criminally attacked, but his examination of the body failed to reveal any clues.

The daughter, a graduate of the University of California, was graduated from Bradford Academy, Haverhill, Mass., in 1932.

Some jewelry had been stripped from the semireclining bodies of the women, but other valuables were left behind—possibly investigators are as to whether robbery was the sole motive.

Mrs. Weston G. Frome, murdered in Texas, was carrying $2000 in travelers' checks. Her body was found beside that of her daughter in the brush.

The hair was rushed to Austin, Tex., for microscopic examination. Gov. James V. Aldred offered a $1000 reward for information leading to solution of the crime.

A searching party came upon the bodies of Mrs. Frome and her daughter three days after their slaying. The bodies were found in the brush of a hillside near the Texas border.

SALEM, April 4.—Night observations from a rain spout over a large apartment house convinced John J. Paytona of Gloucester that his wife was unfaithful, he testified today.

Paytona told the court that he had seen his wife with another man in a hotel room on March 11, 1937, he and his friend asked outside the apartment and watched his wife enter with a man.

He saw a light in the top of the bedroom both men went to the door, straddled on the rain spout, and testified they saw the couple in a bedroom.

Judge Dow took the case under advisement.

BIGGER AND BETTER
 BOSTON AMERICAN

Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., chairman of General Motors, in his an-

As for industrial production Mr. Sloan calls attention to the fact it has not yet reached the records of previous upswings and this usually happens, he adds, before a change in the upward trend takes place. At the beginning of the recent improvement there was a tremendous demand for goods and services and it is still true, not only here as of shortages resulting from the previous depression but also in the more fundamental standpoint of additional purchasing power as well.

Just this week, down a few of the points which have caught the attention is good for one's personal morale and here is a list of things that impresses us. The President is no longer a "punch line" in the news. Congress is displaying some of the independence the electorate has a right to expect. This of course means that the President's political life should be largely forgotten. Official utterances seem to be more "down to earth" than they were and there is less of the "official" tone. The test of the visioned improvement is, as we have said before, a sideways movement in trade and a raised level of living in the next three to five months.

A final point in regard to the market which is still overlooked is its relatively high level in relation to business and trade. Thus a new and further decline could take place without having any significant forecasting value insofar as actual industries and commercial conditions are concerned. Our counsel is still one of patience simply because this will be a strange bear market indeed if it ends overnight instead of bottoming out over a period of weeks.

Chicago Ring Fans
Prove Intelligence

Louis Now Looks
Towards Der Max

By JACK CONWAY

I THOUGHT the slim gathering of 10,000 persons at the Joe Louis five-round knockout of Harry Thomas was a tribute to the intelligence of boxing fans in Chicago. They refused to pay their hard earned money to see what promised to be a one-sided fight.

The betting odds of 20 to 1 with Louis a favorite gave a true idea of what might be expected when the "Brown Bomber" started losing punches at Thomas. Chicago fans had seen Thomas on numerous occasions and knew he was not capable of offering Louis real competition.

The fact Louis and Thomas drew so poorly does not mean Chicago is not a good fight town. It rather proves Chicago is too smart on boxing affairs to go for a setup match.

I believe I called the exact round when the bout would end. I also named the round when Max Schmeling would knock out Thomas.

Either Schmeling or Louis could have knocked Thomas out quicker than they did, but neither saw any occasion for hurrying the ending. They were anxious to let a little punting exercise against an opponent they could stop any time they wished.

I am glad to read Louis will not take on any more pushovers like Thomas before his June bout with Max Schmeling. The champion will not increase his prestige with the public that he was so far in if he punches mediocre opposition until they are helpless.

Schmeling has one more bout before his crack at the title. He will oppose Steve Dukes of Billy Marney's forces in Hamburg, Germany, this month. The best that can be said of Dukes is that he is tough and courageous. He is thankful for the fact he will receive $15,000 for meeting Schmeling.

Billy Marney was formerly one of Schmeling's managers but was moved out when Max decided he was smart enough to do his own business and that he would part with only 10 per cent of his earnings to Joe Jacobs. Marney did not feel very friendly as a result of the way Schmeling treated him. Max tried to make Billy happy by giving Dukes an opportunity to earn $15,000. Dukes has often fought for as little as $750 to $1,000 and has been glad to get it.

LOUIS was not taking kindly for publicity purposes when he said he was not concerned about his world championship bout with Schmeling. He was probably the most surprised person in the world when Schmeling knocked him out in their last bout.

I talked with Louis on several occasions before his tussle with Schmeling and he was sure he would stop the German as he had Primo (Sammy) and Max Baer. Louis was of the opinion Schmeling was going back and that he would be easy to beat.

Louis overtook the fact Schmeling is a good defensive fighter and that he will wait patiently until he gets an opportunity to throw his right hand at the jaw.

Schmeling is one of the most patient men in the boxing game which is why he has been so successful. When boxing commissions and rival clubs have been shooting at him, he has remained in Germany until a final decision has been made. He has then come to this country to battle in a key match.

When Schmeling knocked out Louis, he was denied a championship match with Jimmy Braddock. Efforts were made to get Schmeling to accept other opponents than Braddock, but he refused to do so. He waited until Louis had won the title from Jimmy Braddock and beaten Tommy Farr and some minor opposition, and is finally on the threshold of a title battle.

There was a period when many persons did not believe Louis was sincere when he agreed to meet Schmeling. What doubt I had on the matter was eliminated when Mike Jacobs of the Twentieth Century Club told me he had advanced Schmeling $34,000 to settle his income tax issue with Uncle Sam.

Mike still considers $34,000 a great deal of money. There were occasions when Mike had to dispose of thousands of choice tickets at fancy premiums through hot ticket agents in New York to make that kind of money. For Mike to get financially even with Schmeling the latter has to battle Louis for the title. Even the fact a German may become champion isn't going to stop Jacobs collecting his $34,000 by staging the Louis-Schmeling bout.

The people close to Louis believe the champion can defeat Schmeling. Others say they would not be as enthusiastic about the June meeting with Der Max.

COUNTING the milestones of life, Schmeling is 32 years of age. That is old as fighters go, but in the case of Schmeling one must take into consideration the splendid life he has led, and the additional fact he has had long rests between bouts.

Boxers and other athletes are like the storage battery in your automobile. They only have so much energy in them. If they jam their action into a short space of time, they pass out of the sports picture in three or four years.

If they husband their strength and do not compete too often they are likely to be still top athletes when in their early thirties.

Schmeling, a deliberate type of fighter and a calculating thinker, believes he will always be able to defeat Louis. In his hotel suite after his last triumph over Louis, he told me he could have scored a knockout much more quickly than he did if he had wished to do so.

"I knew I had Louis licked after I scored the first knockdown," said Max. "I had plenty of time, and there was not any reason why I should take unnecessary risks as I got him ready for the knockout. When Louis had little left I knocked him out."

Schmeling has a high personal admiration for Adolf Hitler, and will feel he is carrying the burden of the entire German people when he opposes Louis. Max may be relied upon to be in perfect condition when he enters the ring, and to display excellent judgment every second he is under fire.

Schmeling will only have one thought in his mind when opposing Louis, and that will be to win. He will try to gain the victory by a knockout, but he will be satisfied with a decision on points.

Hawks Challenge

Toronto for Cup

15,531 See Chicago Six Nose Out Americans in Semifinal, 3-2

NEW YORK, April 4 (INS)—It will be Toronto and Chicago for the Stanley Cup in a best three of five series beginning in the Queen City tomorrow night. The Americans bowed out of the play-off picture by losing to Chicago 3 to 2 before 15,531 fans who paid to be in the dome.

They were a different band of Americans from the teams that beat the Rangers twice and the Hawks once.

Five full games and 115 minutes and six seconds of overtime—almost two and a half hours—were taken for the toll from the ancient but willing frames.

It looked from the outset as if it was not their night. Their first one of Scherer, Carr and Chaplin could not get the hot Chicago Hawks into a scoring position. It was the same story when Reardon and Smith were opposed to Gorman, 2, Yon and Jenkins, and again when the four of them were downed by the Hawks.

The finest piece of mechanism in all the universe is the brain of man. And, right now, the delicate but well-developed mental machine of Arlington's Coach Fred Ostergren is being worked overtime in an effort to find a successful 1938 baseball team. "There's just any position to kid ourselves," he chuckled, looking over his shoulder at the Sox. "We've got a real tough job."

The veteran catcher, who was loaned to the Sox by the department, was a real tough job.

Blessed are ye that hunger now: for ye shall be filled. Blessed are ye that weep now: for ye shall laugh.—St. Luke VI, 21.

The Editor Says:

"Establishment of a commission to insure proper burial of pauper inmates in State hospitals isomely following charges by State Auditor Buckley that unclaimed bodies at Medford State Hospital had been dumped, nearly naked, in Potter's Field."—New Item.

THE State Auditor's complaints are serious—so serious that no conscientious official can ignore them.

If the bodies of the dead were dumped into graves without benefit of either clergy or undertaker, the people of this State ought to know what man or what group of men was responsible.

But if, on the other hand, Mr. Buckley's charges are false, accused persons deserve and should receive an apology.

It is a clear violation of State regulations to bury a corpse in the manner that some of the pauper dead of Medford State Hospital are said to have been buried.

Consequently, if these complaints are true, they provide sufficient grounds for a new and THOROUGH investigation in the Department of Mental Diseases.

We ought not to forget that this department has requested more than twenty million dollars of the taxpayers' money to spend this year.

Undeniably any branch of the State's service seeking that sum should make a sincere effort to conduct its affairs properly.

MR. BLOOMFIELD SCORES

"Claims of sales tax proponents that the levy would reduce the assessment on real estate were refuted by Daniel Bloomfield, Secretary-Treasurer of the Boston Retail Trade Board."—New Item.

After all the empty promises that have been made by sales tax advocates, it is good to see common sense entering into the argument. Mr. Bloomfield provides this.

"Your real estate taxes will be reduced. It will be a pleasure to own property then." This has been the favorite song of politicians who hope to extract $45,000,000 a year MORE from the people's pockets.

The able secretary-treasurer of the Retail Trade Board ends that song, effectively and forever. He says:

"Before the sales tax hit New York City, the property levy was $24.48. Now it is $25.39."

He further shows that, in spite of sales taxes, rates on real estate went up $8.02 in Chicago and $6.89 in Los Angeles.

It is reasonable to believe the same thing would happen in this State; property assessments would remain at a confiscatory level and, in addition, everybody, including the real estate owner, would pay more for all that he bought to eat, wear or use.

No wonder the sales tax proposal is expected to die where it should die—in committee.

BE FAIR TO WAR VETERANS

"We feel most emphatically that this is NOT the time to practice economy at the expense of the proper care of the former soldiers."—Disabled American Veterans of the World War.

The veterans' protest results from the legislative Ways and Means Committee's recommendation that less money be appropriated for the Soldiers' Home and Hospital in Chelsea.

Sensors and Representatives should listen to that protest, AND HEED IT. Assuredly the men who risked their lives for us in the troubled days of 1898 and 1917 have every right in the world to expect a square deal from us now.

The Soldiers' Home and Hospital is rendering a much needed service to veterans requiring hospitalization. Justice and fairness demand that this service continue and that its present high standards be maintained.

Our opinion is that the Ways and Means Committee could find the savings it is endeavoring to effect in other places instead of curtailing the vitally essential functions of the institution in Chelsea.

HE'D OUST 'SISSY BOOKS'

"One of our principal troubles is that school readers look pretty easy to a girl-bloody book."—Dr. Emmett A. Betts at Pennsylvania State College in address to State Conference of Elementary School Superintendents at Anshurst.

There is apparent truth in Dr. Betts' advice; our many little sons do not find much interest in textbooks that deal with dolls, cradles and ladylike games.

That, as this educator says, probably explains why our daughters learn to read more quickly and make better grades in the primary school.

To remedy this situation, Dr. Betts would make our first readers more masculine, more red-blooded. He would have us take cognizance of the fact that boys like to play "cops and robbers."

The danger there is that some instructors might be TOO cognizant. They might, like Messrs. Mussolini and Hitler, become so "red-blooded" that the child's literary diet would consist solely of bayonets, war and slaughter.

If we must have masculine books why cannot the themes be of sports, of adventure and of exploration? Unquestionably the Boy Scout organization seems to be doing very well without playing "cops and robbers."

Bracing Up Our Leaning Tower!

By Nelson Harding

Administration pressure for passage of the Reorganization Bill has made a LEANING TOWER of Congress.

Let us PROP IT UP with PUBLIC PROTEST.

The people's BARRAGE OF PROTEST to the Senate was futile. But the fight was neither lost nor won in the Senate.

Make the House LISTEN TO THE PEOPLE.

Back it up with letters and telegrams that will restore the LEANING TOWER as a staunch CITADEL OF DEMOCRACY.

This is a FIGHT FOR DEMOCRACY, with the people against those who would DESTROY DEMOCRACY.

Human Side of the News

By Edwin C. Hill

THERE is more than a hint from Washington that the Federal Bureau of Investigation—we know them best as G-men—are beginning to question the policy of keeping hands off a kidnapping case until either the ransom is paid or all hope of the recovery of the kidnaped person has been abandoned.

Both Federal agents and the local police feel that the policy of hands-off tends to hamper justice and to help the criminal.

Proposals to prohibit ransoms have been made in the United States by Dr. Carleton Simon, New York criminologist. These proposals are: Take the profit out of kidnapping and it would stop.

Ignore ransoms and kidnappers would have nothing for which to fight. They would abandon a business which paid no dividends. If such an attitude were adopted, there would be a few martyrs at first, but society would benefit ultimately.

There are other signs of a rising revolt against the practice of handoffing, blindfolded and gagging officers of the law in this particular crime. No one alive can fail to sympathize with a father or mother driven desperate by something far worse than grief, or the mere fear of death. No one alive can blame a father or mother for begging Federal men and police to keep away until the case is closed one way or another.

That is the pathetic side—the intensely human side of much kidnapping cases.

But I am merely calling attention to the growing restiveness of the law-enforcement officers. And their argument in a nutshell is this: KIDNAPING CONTINUES IN THE UNITED STATES SIMPLY BECAUSE IT CONTINUES TO PAY.

In a dozen of the most celebrated kidnappings covered by the best of all sleuths, the G-men, only about one-third of the money paid was ever recovered. To be exact, $650,000 was not—so far—come back.

Despite arrests and convictions, there is still a bare chance of big dividends. It is a gambler's chance; but, even though nine out of ten who take it end in the cell or on the scaffold, there will always be a more criminal egotist lured by the savage hope of gain—until that hope is forever removed.

Medical men in their recent conventions have brought out amazing facts about human life and the great killers that lay in wait to destroy. Medicine has learned so much in the past 50 years—as much probably as it knew for 500 years preceding—that the one-time devastating epidemics have virtually been eliminated.

is now halted at the ocean gateways. Even the White Plague, consumption, has been beaten back by devoted effort.

But as medicine learns new things and takes new strides forward, new problems arise to challenge its skill. The rapidity of the times, the terrific nervous hurly-burly in which we live, the increasing tension of the struggle for existence, have given new energy to old killers.

As Frederick H. Ecker, president of the great Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, remarked some time ago, heart disease is now the most destructive, relentless enemy of the American people. That is largely true because few people resort in time to medical advisers.

The human heart is the most marvelous machine that imagination could conceive of. When it is turning over smoothly, one is barely aware that he has a heart in his breast. Only when it develops a knock does concern arise.

Your heart has been beating 70-odd times a minute, 4500 an hour, for 6000 times a day, all the years of your life. Every hour of the day, for it never sleeps, it pumps 50 gallons of blood through a tireless little engine and a marvelous system of pipes.

The only rest the heart ever gets is between beats. That is why sex periods of rest for men and women are so essential to its well-being.

Heart disease is the greatest of modern killers, but it doesn't kill suddenly, even though death may come with apparent suddenness. The medical men tell us that there is always plenty of warning for those who will pause and take warning. There may come a sense of fatigue or shortness of breath or severe palpitation. These are the little danger signals.

Seventy-two per cent could have been cured if they had been examined in the first stages. Much the same thing is true of heart disease.

Doctors do wonderful work, but they are not magicians. You have got to give them a chance. The human heart is a marvelous little motor, but it is not indestructible, and the time comes when it needs easement and rest.

You have a choice of lamenting with Lord Byron: "Give, oh give me back my heart," or smiling with Lord Lytton: "A good heart is better than all the heads in the world."

The Political Parade

By George Rothwell Brown

WASHINGTON, April 4.

M. R. ROOSEVELT'S March Springs vacation has not proved a political success.

Thirty years have passed since a President of the United States raised such a hornet's nest at the Capitol, as was stirred up by the off-hand remark about the purchasability of Senators.

As the purport of those words sank into the Senatorial mind, the seething resentment sounded like the hum of an angry swarm.

Coming on top of the Gainesville speech, it succeeded only in widening a breach between Executive and Congress now wide enough to drive a team of mules through without touching the sides.

But times and conditions have changed in Congress and the last comparable incident occurred, and while it was clear that Congress was mad, it quickly became apparent that nothing much would be done about it.

Not so in the olden times. It was back in 1900 or maybe a year later—that President Theodore Roosevelt became enraged because the House Appropriations Committee inserted pointed language in a bill providing that no money for the Secret Service could be spent otherwise than as specifically provided by law for the detection of counterfeiting and the protection of the President.

The then President Roosevelt considered this to be an affront to him.

He sent a scorching message to the House of Representatives in which he insinuated that members were afraid of having the secret service used to investigate themselves.

The House appointed a special committee to consider the President's message. It made a report, the purport of which was that Mr.

Roosevelt's message was insulting to the dignity of the House, and should be laid on the table.

No such affair has ever been offered to a President of the United States since then. No message of a President since then has been "laid on the table," and probably the incident is a unique in the whole history of Congress.

It is recalled now to illustrate the changed psychology of Congress today.

Uncle Joe Cannon, who was speaker in T. R.'s time, may have been a czar, but at least they were not a "rubber stamp" Congress in his day.

"What will the soundfells do if I bring them here?"

This spoke Grover Cleveland, in the midst of the panic of 1893, when urged to summon Congress in extra session to repeal the silver purchasing clause of the Sherman Act.

When assured that there were enough votes in the House to carry the repeal measure, Old Grover said grimly:

"If you are sure of the House I can take care of the patronage chasers of the Senate."

But Cleveland spoke these words privately, not in a public interview. His opinion of Congress was not disclosed until after his death.

But Congress suspected what he thought of them, and did not get along with him.

There has been talk at the Senate of 15 Senators who voted against the President's Reorganization Bill signing jointly a letter of protest to Mr. Roosevelt against the War Springs interview.

Probably nothing will come of this. But it illustrates how hot the Senate is under the collar.

Pioneer master of ceremonies was Wally James, who spread his fast chatter in a cabaret 25 years ago and soon drew a flock of imitators. ## March of Events

By Benjamin DeCasseres

PRESIDENT NICHOLAS MURRAY BUTLER, of Columbia University, is a much travelled and decorated man.

When physical barriers stand in the way of Dr. Butler's further gallivanting, he uses the seven-league boot of his imagination.

He now tells us, in his annual report of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, what "an intelligent Martian" would see if he looked over the earth.

What he would see, according to Dr. Butler, is, indeed, blood-freeding—millions under arms, millions out of work, treatise being torn up, etc., etc.

Finally, Dr. Butler thinks if these things go on the earth may become "the deserted and uninhabited moon of the planet Mars itself."

Now, the good doctor skips lightly, although weighted down to deck A with all those medals, to the planet Venus.

What do we see here, children? Well, the doctor finds a good fairy on the Evening Star, who says, in fine:

"Dear doctor, things are not so hell-bent as you think. They are really things that are working to a higher and finer goal."

In other words, some fine day, there'll be free medals for everybody!

"I think that he is primarily a dreamer, a visionary. . . . He is ready, like a medieval saint, to go through fire and water for his beliefs. I am not certain that he would not actually like being tortured; he would love playing the martyr. . . . He sees himself as a crusader; he thinks the whole time of saving mankind. That is why he reaches such a stage of mystical exaltation when he talks about saving the world from Bolshevism."

And, if so, it is just as well for Hitler to remember that Ludwig committed suicide.

There is something almost comic in the way the Stalin Communists of Russia are busy conquering the rest of the world on paper and the Trotsky Communists are engaged in giving away Russian provinces to England, Germany and Japan.

The mania for giving away Russia, by the way, was started by Lenin.

In the treaty of Brest-Litovsk, in 1918, concluded between Germany and Russia, Lenin was forced to hand over to Germany about one-fourth of her land and people, one-third of her industries and three-fourths of her mineral wealth.

Trotsky refused to sign the infamous document—but he and his followers, if "confessions" are to be believed, have repented.

It is a foreign power for swivel-chairs in the Kremlin.
